Summer Programs 2019

Camp Psych:

Camp Psych is for upcoming Sophomores through Seniors wanting to see how the world of psychological science works. The camp will last for six days and it is taking place at the Gettysburg College campus. Camp Psych is going to be directed by Drs. Brian P. Meier and Abigail A. Scholer, social psychologists with extensive experience in psychological research and teaching. This would be a great opportunity for students to see the depths of this field, along with seeing what classes students will have to take to be a psychologist.

Session Description:

Students going to Camp Psych will be able to get the hands-on experience in psychology, entering into research in an engaging, challenging and fun way, instead of just learning what psychology is. Students will be living in a college residence hall with advisors 24/7 that are picked based on whether or not they took psychology at Gettysburg College, are mature, and what experience they have. A day at Camp Psych is as follows:

8:00-9:00	Breakfast
9:00-12:00	Topic Introduction: Helping Others: Acting and Failing to Act <ul style="list-style-type: none">- Introduction to the psychological study of helping behavior- Identify research questions (e.g., Do people help more when they are alone or with their friends?)- Presentation of cutting-edge research in the field- Real-world applications and issues (e.g., Applying helping research to address issues of environmental sustainability)- Break-out discussion groups (e.g., does true altruism exist?)

Summer Programs 2019

12:00-1:00	Lunch
1:00-4:00	Topic Action: Experimental Research on Helping - Students design studies and collect data with RAs and faculty - Students summarize results and present to class

Ohio Business Week

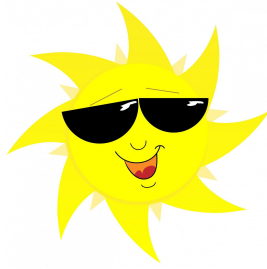

Ohio University

<http://www.ohiobusinessweek.org/>

At Ohio University, students that have a 2.0 GPA or above and have no significant discipline issues can come and join Ohio Business Week, where they can run a business, start their own business, and get the college experience for a whole week. The Executive Director is Cory Dippold and the Program Director is John Davis.

Session Description:

Ohio Business Week will help students learn how to communicate, collaborate, create, and use critical thinking. Students will also be getting knowledge and advice from business leaders. There will be volunteers, speakers, consultants, support volunteers, a medical professional, and Company Advisors to help the students along the way. Dorm monitors will be used to keep track of the resident halls at night for the safety of the students and volunteers. There will also be a Trade Show where students will get to practice their business skills and volunteers posing as venture capitalists will put them to the test.
